I. INTRODUCTION

Development essentially aims to create a fair and prosperous society that is equitable and equal. Development begins with development planning to plan development programs that will be implemented in the future. The success of a development program is not only based on the ability of the government, but is also related to community participation in conducting the development programs. [1] The implementation of community participation in development is crucial in every stage of development starting from the planning stage, implementation stage, utilization stage, and evaluation stage. A description of the importance of community participation in development planning includes: a) Community participation is a tool to obtain information about the conditions, needs and attitudes of the local community.

The community will have more confidence in the development activity program if they are involved in its preparation and planning. Hence, they will know more about the ins and outs of the activity program and will have a sense of ownership of the activity program. b) Encouraging public participation because there will be an assumption that it is a democratic right if the communities are involved in development. Village communities can play a role and participate in the preparation of development planning. [2] mentioned that the factors that influence community participation in development planning include: a) Leadership, b) Communication and c) Education. [3] suggests that leaders play a role in guiding, helping, leading, building work motivation, controlling the organization, establishing good communication, conducting regular supervision, and directing their subordinates to the goals they want to achieve. Communication can be identified as the delivery of information between two or more people. Communication is also a necessary process to achieve effectiveness [4]. Planned Education, provides the possibility of self-development and tends to be able to work skillfully [5]. Law No. 6 of 2014 concerning Villages, the rights and obligations of villages and village communities, it is stated that the village community has the right to: a) Request and obtain information from the Village Government and supervise the execution of Village Government activities, implementation of Village Development, Village Community development, and Village community empowerment. b) Obtaining equal and fair service. b) Delivering aspirations, suggestions, and oral or written opinions in a responsible manner regarding the activities of implementing Village Government, implementing Village Development, fostering Village Communities, and empowering Village communities which include: a) Selecting, being elected or determined to be: Village Head, Village Apparatus, Village Consultative Members; or Member of the Village Community Institution. b) Get shelter and protection from disturbances to peace and order in the village.

According to the mandate of Law No. 25 of 2004 concerning the Village Development Planning System, Development Planning is divided into 20-year Long-Term Development Plans, Medium-Term Development Plans and annual Government Work Plans. Village planning itself can be divided into 2 parts, first in the form of the Village Medium-Term Development Plan. The term of the Village Medium Term Development Plan is 6 years, This means that this plan is enforced 6 years after being compiled and established. The second plan is the Village Annual Development Plan or Village Government Work Plan. This plan is an elaboration of the Village Medium Term Development Plan, and the period is one year. Both the Village Medium Term Development Plan and the Village Government Work Plan are then determined in a Village Regulation. The Village Medium Term Development Plan and the Village Government Work Plan are the only planning documents in the Village.

The two plans above are guidelines in the preparation of the Village Revenue and Expenditure Budget which is regulated in a Government Regulation. Planning with a participatory approach is a development strategy and a social determination process. [6] stated that social goals are aimed at ethically responding to the needs and challenges of society through actions to minimize negative impacts. [7] also added that the social aspect must be adjusted to the environment due to the input and output that is going to be achieved. The community must have the awareness to be involved in the development process. The village planning forum is in the form of village development planning deliberation. The substance of village development planning includes setting priorities, programs, activities, and needs for Village Development funded by the Village Revenue and Expenditure Budget, Village community self-help, and/or from the sources of the Regency/City Regional Revenue and Expenditure Budget. Development planning in the Bandar Khalifah village, Percut Sei Tuan District, begins with the Village Development Planning Deliberation, which certainly requires community participation. However, in practice, the problem of participation is still a problem, among others: the lack of enthusiasm for community participation in participating in the Musrenbang due to many of their proposals that have not been realized because of budget constraints and succumbing to development priorities.

Based on the observations, the following problems can be identified: a) The community does not fully understand about community participation in village development planning in Bandar Khalifah Village, Percut Sei Tuan District, which has been running so far. b) The lack of community knowledge related to community participation in village development planning. Based on science, development planning must be maintained by increasing scientific validity and policy relevance. Based on this motive, development planning has developed quite dynamically, both theoretically and paradigmatically. This development can be seen as follows:
