I. INTRODUCTION

In order to maximize every potential of students, schools cannot rely only on intracurricular activities. Schools can provide facilities in the form of extracurricular activities that can accommodate every potential possessed by students. As summarized in the Minister of Education and Culture Number 62 of 2014 concerning Extracurricular Activities, in article it is written that extracurricular activities have the aim of developing the potential, talents, interests, abilities, personalities, cooperation, and independence of students optimally in order to support the achievement of national education goals. That way, through extracurricular activities, students gain the opportunity to develop their interests more broadly in various fields. Art is one of the fields that students are interested in as well as can be developed through extracurricular activities. Through extracurricular activities carried out outside of class hours, the school provides the widest possible opportunities for students to study a particular field. Especially in the field of art, the school provides several types of extracurriculars such as music, form, dance, and literature. This type of extracurricular does not always exist completely owned by each school, because it depends on the policies of each school in seeing the potential of the students it has. Literature as one of the fields of art, has been taught in learning in the classroom, namely through Indonesian lessons. Literary content is found in every Indonesian learning curriculum, at every level of education. The variety of literature is alternately studied by students, including poetry, fiction, drama, and old literature as summarized in the school curriculum. Students are directed to study literary knowledge both in theory, appreciation, and production.

The extracurricular presence of literary writing has a role as part of literature learning in schools. Its existence provides extra space for students to deepen their insights into theory, appreciation, and production of literary works as obtained in the classroom. With the additional provisions obtained during the extracurricular activities of literary writing, it is not impossible that it will have a positive influence on literature learning that takes place in the classroom. In addition, the problem of the limited portion of literary content in the curriculum was also indirectly resolved. Based on the analysis of the causes of the problem above, the solution offered to overcome the problem is to conduct Spotify Application Training in Making Radio Dramas as an Extracurricular Activity for Literature Studios in Schools. Through this training, it is hoped that it can be feedback for students to be motivated to develop their interests and talents through extracurricular activities in the literary studio at school by making radio dramas through the Spotify application. Especially in the SMK Asshiddiqiyah Cilamaya Kulon Karawang area, it is a school that has extracurricular activities. The existence of student extracurricular activities that are closely related to literacy activities is an investment not only for the school but also the nation. A high level of literacy indicates a high quality of human resources as well. In this regard, the author is interested in conducting Spotify Application Training activities in Making Radio Dramas as Extracurricular Activities for the Development of Literary Studios in Schools, as well as the launching of the school literacy movement, it is also interesting to study literacy activities that take place in extracurricular activities. It is hoped that through this community service activity "Spotify Application Training in Making Drama Radio as an Extracurricular Activity of Extracurricular at School" can be an example for other schools that are interested in doing similar activities.

III. RESULT AND DISCUSSION
The results of community service activities in Pasirukem Village, Cilamaya Kulon District can be carried out properly and run in accordance with the previously prepared program. This is proven smoothly and the achievement of all programs that have been implemented properly. All programs give significant results. The following is a description of the success of the program according to the target of the program, namely SMK Asshiddiqiyah: students gain new knowledge about how to use the Spotify and Anchor platforms to upload radio dramas. They also know the process of making radio dramas from the beginning to the publication stage. Based on the pre-test and post-test results there is a consistent increase. The pre-test results, students who tend not to know the process of making radio dramas include: dubbing, script surgery, literary studios, sound effects, and how to upload to the Spotify platform. After getting training on radio drama materials and applications, it has an impact on improving the results of the post-test score. Students also became motivated to make radio dramas or podcasts, because at first they lacked information about the Spotify platform. The achievement of the community service program was successfully implemented thanks to the help of parties who were involved. From the SMK Asshiddiqiyah, both students and school teachers are very enthusiastic about the training of community service programs.

The existence of records and documentation during community service activities as basic evidence in making a final report. The following are the results of the student test based on training in extracurricular activities of radio dramas in schools:

Test Assessment Result of SMK Asshiddiqiyah Students

Based on the table above, you can see the difference in values before and after training. The average pre-test result was 65.31 and experienced an increase in scores after receiving radio drama training, the average post test was 77.3. The post-test results showed an increase after receiving training. Art is one of the fields that students are interested in as well as can be developed through extracurricular activities. Through extracurricular activities carried out outside of class hours, the school provides the widest possible opportunities for students to study certain fields. Especially in the field of art, the school provides several types of extracurriculars such as music, form, dance, and literature. Its existence provides extra space for students to deepen their insights into theory, appreciation, and production of literary works as obtained in the classroom. With the additional provisions obtained during the extracurricular activities of literary writing, it is not impossible that it will have a positive influence on literature learning that takes place in the classroom. In addition, the problem of the limited portion of literary content in the curriculum was also indirectly resolved.

The problem at SMK Asshiddiqiyah is that some students in the school do not know what the Spotify application is, literary knowledge outside the theory conveyed by teachers at school, and extracurricular activities at SMK Asshiddiqiyah. Because SMK Asshiddiqiyah is a school based in Islamic boarding schools, this KKN program only carries out material delivery activities regarding dubbing, script surgery, sound effects, extracurricular literary studios in schools, and general knowledge about the Spotify application and provides products from the KKN student activities to trainees whose target is to students of SMK Asshiddiqiyah. Based on the analysis of the causes of the problem above, the solution offered to overcome the problem is to conduct Spotify Application Training in Making Radio Dramas as an Extracurricular Activity for Literature Studios in Schools. Through this training, it is hoped that it can be feedback for students to be motivated to develop their interests and talents through extracurricular activities in the literary studio at school by making radio dramas through the Spotify application. Based on the results of previous observations and found learning problems in schools, the author offers the following solutions: 1) Training in understanding literary studios 2) Understanding drama scripts resulting from folklore adaptations; 3) Introduction to the Spotify app and its use; 4) training in script making plays into the Spotify app; 5) The use of the Spotify application as an extracurricular activity for literary studios in schools.

The results of the training are expected that trainees will be able to apply learning media based on the Spotify application in schools, 1) Trainees will be able to understand the functions and benefits of literary studios; 2) trainees are able to understand the content of the drama script resulting from the adaptation of folklore; 3) able to operate the Spotify app; 4) able to create drama scripts into the Spotify application; 5) able to apply Spotify as an extracurricular activity for literary studios in schools.

After the training was carried out, then to find out the ability of the trainees, the task of making radio dramas was carried out using the Spotify application and distributing questionnaires to the training participants. Based on the task of radio dramas and lift questionnaires, it is known to what extent the trainees are able to understand and apply Spotify as a literary studio development in schools.
As for research related to the Spotify application written by S. Yollis Michdon Netti and Irwansyah entitled "Spotify: Music Streaming Application for Millennials" shows that how millennials consume music, the history and trends of streaming music technology, how Spotify prepares its technology to remain number one, how does streaming music work on Spotify, what are the services - online advertising service from Spotify For Brands, how Spotify ad implementation for brands and ad formats are used, what are the success stories of brands that have used Spotify's advertising services, and how Spotify helps brands to effectively reach millennials, and how Spotify leverages technology to be at the forefront of today.

Based on the activities of community service activities in 2018 by Mansyur and Nurhasanah which were published in the journal Biormatika: Scientific journals of the faculty of teacher training and education, volume 4, no. 01, namely,

"The lack of extracurriculars at the Senior High School level is usually due to the lack of awareness of the school with this extracurricular drama (theater) activity, which can also slip and get used to good behavior with role-playing and the teacher's lack of awareness of the arts. Usually drama (theater) coaches in applying character education to students by telling stories after rehearsal time and invitations. Teachers in viewing drama (theater) schools should place drama (theater) as a medium in the transformation of character education. Drama (Theater) can be an integral part of character education learning materials. Through theatrical activities in schools, students have practiced the values of character education intelligently. From the intense creative process of art will lead learners to the dive into the values of true human character. Students will be able to distinguish human characters that can support the development of humanist human values. Seeing the fact that the lack of awareness of school administrators about the importance of art in learning makes extracurricular drama (theater) in schools still rare, especially at the High School level."

Based on the results of the research above, the researcher decided to use the Spotify application in a community service activity entitled Spotify Application Training in Making Radio Dramas as an Extracurricular Activity for Literature Studios in schools.
IV. CONCLUSION

Based on the results of observations, it can be known what problems exist in community service partners, Pasirukem village, and can help solve these problems. Radio drama training activities with the spotify application at SMK Asshiddiqiyah, not only conduct theoretical and practical training on how to make radio dramas, starting from reading story scripts, developing characters in stories, recording voices to be used as material for radio dramas, and uploading them to music and podcast application channels that are widely used by the public, namely the application Spotify.
